

Fire Chief Pat Martin Retires

By Michael Haskewitz

PLAINFIELD—Longtime Fire Department chief Pat Martin is retiring from his position after more than two decades of service. The most recent showing of light was on the same night as the April 8 meeting. Light has again with both the east and west jurisdictions.

Chief Commissioner Brian Turner said a majority of appreciation at the meeting. "After more than two decades of service to the Plainfield Volunteer Fire Department, Patrick Martin is handing over the reins to the next generation. The town is fortunate that he will continue the excellent service as an integral part of the team. His leadership has led the fire service to a new level of excellence and a standard of excellence that is a real source of pride for the community." Martin said he will continue to be available to the town as a consultant.

He recalled that for his help, the town was absolutely huge and he was proud to be a part of it. He said he was looking forward to the future and the challenges of the job in maintaining the stability in the staffing department. "That will be probably the single biggest challenge that we will face," he said.
