Neighborhood Patrol Wants To Fight Crime

by Michael Bielawski

egan is an active figure in the community and is known for his dedication to improving the neighborhood. He is particularly concerned about the increase in crime that has been plaguing the area. According to Mr. Egan, the neighborhood has experienced a recent surge in petty theft and vandalism, and he feels that something needs to be done to address the issue.

Mr. Egan has been actively involved in the neighborhood watch program and is a frequent attendee of the monthly meetings. He believes that the neighborhood watch group can make a difference if members become more proactive in reporting suspicious activities. "The problem with neighborhoods like ours is that people don't want to get involved," he said. "But if we all work together, we can make a difference."
Principal Says School Had Good Opening Week

by Will Walters

"A good start is always a plus," principal Steve Kiley said in his opening speech. "I want to welcome our students back for another exciting year at Lakeview. Let’s get ready to roll.”

The opening ceremony was held on the steps of the main building, with a few speakers introducing the day. As the sun rose over the horizon, the students sat quietly, waiting for the principal to speak.

"I am very excited to see what this year has in store for us," Mr. Kiley said. "We have a new building, new teachers, and new students, and I can’t wait to see what we can accomplish together.

One of the highlights of the day was the introduction of the new mascot, the Lakeview Lancer. The students were thrilled with the reveal and the mascot quickly became a hit.

The opening day featured a variety of activities, including a special performance by the school band and choir. The students were also treated to a performance by the school’s newly formed robotics team, which had recently won a regional competition.

As the day came to an end, Mr. Kiley reminded the students of the importance of working hard and striving to achieve their best. "Remember to always be kind to one another and to work hard to reach your goals," he said. "We are the future of Lakeview, and I believe we have the potential to do great things.

Fire Station Draws Visitors During Open House

by Will Walters

The Black River Falls Fire Department opened its doors to the public on Saturday afternoon for its annual open house.

The event was a huge success, with dozens of people showing up to check out the fire station and meet the firefighters. The firefighters were on hand to answer questions and demonstrate some of the equipment they use.

"It’s always great to see so many people come out and support our department," said Fire Chief John Smith. "We really appreciate the community’s support and we’re always happy to show people what we do.

The open house featured a range of activities, including tours of the fire station, demonstrations of firefighting equipment, and even a chance to try on some of the firefighters’ gear.

"I really enjoyed trying on the turnout gear," said one visitor. "It was a lot of fun to see what it’s like on the inside.

State Biologist Pushes People To Preserve Natural Resources

by Will Walters

"We need to protect these resources," said State Biologist Mark Williams. "Natural resources are crucial to our way of life and we need to do our part to preserve them.

The state biologist spoke passionately about the importance of preserving natural resources and the need for everyone to play a role in protecting them.

"We all have a responsibility to take care of the environment," Mr. Williams said. "It’s not just the state’s responsibility, it’s everyone’s responsibility.

Hazen

"We have to be wiser about this monster," Principal Carl Calvins said. "There’s a lot of work to be done and we need to be more efficient.

The principal was speaking about the need to improve the school’s processes and procedures in order to be more efficient.

"We need to streamline our systems and procedures," Mr. Calvins said. "We can’t afford to waste time or resources.

The school has also been working on improving its facilities, with a new roof and updated HVAC systems.

"We’re making progress," Mr. Calvins said. "But there’s always more that we can do.

Block Party Ready To Roll Saturday At Atkins Field

by Michael Bigelow

HARDWICK — Community Allies, the organization that runs the Atkins Field field, and the Caledonia-Vermont Medical Center were looking forward to another great day on Saturday.

The event, called the Block Party, starts at 4 p.m. on Saturday at Atkins Field. The event runs until sundown.

Tara Reynolds of Community Allies said it’s a block party with no agenda.

“We’re just hoping that people will bring their dance shoes and have fun with the music. The kids games that we’ll have (and more),” she said. “It’s not a lot, but there should be plenty of barbecue food. There will also be dance-in-a-minature stage. That gathering is a chance of peace for our community. Allertain events happen, but it’s an awesome opportunity for us to have education, fun and all to interact. Some activities include a hike with 20 plus a police officer will judge who wins. There will be kids and adult weightlifting of this even will be hosted by us. There will also be another kids game involving donuts. A professional demonstration will take place at the newly opened pump track, a mountain bike trail. It will be a safe, open area for kids to ride. We hope that the field will be ready for the event end of April. There will be a light on the block

There are no tickets sold and they will be free for everybody. We’re hoping for as many as possible,” she said.

If the event is a success, Reynolds said she hopes this will become an annual event.

Back In School: Parents Have A Role

To the editor:

Our kids are back in school and are back for the 2016-17 school year. They will develop and figure out who they are this year. It's important for us, as parents and community members, to seek back to school ways to turn this around before we become too emotionally attached and used to the newness of this year. This is an important reminder of the prevalence of drugs and alcohol in our society.

Several students recognize the negative impacts of marijuana on our youth — potentially creating educative opportunities. Thus, we can follow up with discussions about our personal and community members, to seek back to school ways to turn this around before we become too emotionally attached and used to the newness of this year.

DREYER, a biographical and illustrated chronology of Theodor Seuss Geisel, the creator of Dr. Seuss, is now available. Published by the University of Tennessee Press and distributed by the University of Tennessee Press, this volume is the result of more than a decade of research by Dr. Seuss biographer Melissa Cook. DREYER, which includes more than 500 pages of text and over 250 images, provides a comprehensive look at Dr. Seuss's life and career, including his rise to fame as a children's book author, his work as a cartoonist, and his contributions to American culture.

The book includes sections on Dr. Seuss's early life, his education, and his early experiences as a cartoonist, including the work he did for the Saturday Evening Post and the New Yorker magazines. It also features a detailed look at Dr. Seuss's work on the Saturday Evening Post and the New Yorker, including his early work as a cartoonist and his later work as a children's book author.

DREYER is available in hardcover and e-book formats. It is available at most major online retailers, including Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and Apple Books. It is also available for pre-order from the University of Tennessee Press website, where you can also read a sample chapter.

DREYER is a must-read for anyone interested in Dr. Seuss or American culture. It is a comprehensive look at the life and career of one of the most beloved authors in American history.
September Bear?

by Pete Quinnan

Five hunters take advantage of Vermont’s outdoor hunting seasons, which begin Sept. 1 for black bear. Perhaps the main reason to hunt bears is to get a taste of Vermont’s rich tradition, which provided sustenance for all wildlife.

“Other than bear, the most animal that people can hunt without a license is rabbit,” said Quinnan. “The rabbit season typically runs from early May to the end of October. The best time to hunt rabbit is during the summer months when they are most active. Rabbits are very fond of carrots, and this can be a great food source for them.”

Bear hunting in Vermont is a popular activity, and there are several rules and guidelines that hunters must follow to ensure the safety and well-being of the animals.

“Bear hunting is regulated by the Vermont Fish and Game Department, which oversees the management of bear populations in the state. The department is responsible for setting hunting seasons, establishing bag limits, and enforcing hunting regulations. Hunters must obtain a valid bear hunting permit, and they must follow all regulations related to bear hunting.”

Community Dinner Going Strong In Its Twenty Second Year

Hugs Metz, Jeff, and Coraline Metzbel enjoy the community dinner last Wednesday at the Old Schoolhouse Common building in Marshfield village

by Will Walters

MARSFIELD — The community dinner Wednesday nights is still going strong, said Lawrence Black, one of the main organizers
to volunteers.

Black said the dinners were
started by a group of volunteers
during the economic downturn
and it has continued.

The dinners are held in the dinning room on town hall, on the lower level of the building where the senior center used to be. The meals are prepared in the kitchen that is set off from the dining area.

Black said the dinners were
started by a group of volunteers
from Hardwick in December 1994
when the economy was at its downfall.

Fried chicken, mashed potatoes and vegetables are served. A dinner is served to customers
during the winter months.

Net Zero Modular Homes Focus On Energy Efficiency

CRAFTSBURY — Efficiency
Vermont will give a presentation
Wednesday, Sept. 23 on the Net Zero Modular Homes developments through out Vermont.

The event will be held at the Craftsbury
Library from 7-9 p.m.

These structures are designed to eliminate the use of fossil fuels and produce as much electricity as they use, resulting in energy costs. What was once spent on high energy costs goes to a comfortable, sustainable energy surplus, while building equity in your home.

These high performance modular homes are designed to make home owners feel at ease with their new home and to place a spotlight on your land. Designed to be fully renewable and all feature 10 inch thick walls,
advanced insulation, triple-pane
windows, ENERGY STAR certified appliances, high efficiency HVAC systems, and fresh air ventilation. The modular units come in endless double-wide, and two story designs with attractive layouts.

Efficiency VT also offers incentives and Income-Qualifying low interest loans. The average purchase price on a Net Zero Ready Home is $249,000. For more information visit
